On the way to the Thames em-bankment, at Ludgate Circus, where the rougher element of the city was packed, there were some exciting incidents.

WALES SAT DOWN UPON.

This rowdy element had been getting up steam on beer and gin and fights with the police. This had been the tuning-up of the mob, as it were, so that when the Prince of Wales's carriage appeared it was not astonishing that he was somewhat sat down upon. The authorities, however, seem to have got wind of what was expected, so that when the carriage containing the Prince and Princess of Wales passed down Ludgate Hill and through Ludgate Gircus on its way to the Embankment it was not driven at the regular procession rate, but at a decidedly rapid pace, so much so that the carriage ind passed the dangerous spot before the main hody of the crowd was aware that the Prince was in their midst.

"I immediately notified Mayor J. Taylor Ellyson, the president of our company, of the matter, one of our clerks having stated to me that he could swear the writing was that of Pattee. Mr. Ellyson advised me to procure the check and turn it over to him.

Mayor Eliyson was next sworn. He confirmed the statement of Mr. McCarthy as to how the spurious check came into his possession, and added that as Mayor of Richmond he turned it over to the Chief of Police with instructions to lock into the matter, consult the Commonwealth's Attorney, and do whatever was proper and necessary to vindicate the law.

In regard to the $192.00 alleged to have been checked out of the bank, Mr. Ryan stated that the way in which he managed his banking business made his bank accounts appear three times larger than they really were. He would make a deposit and then give another bank a check for the amount, or would draw out of one bank and deposit in another. This "kiting" was done between three Athina banks. He cited instances of money he had borrowed, aggregating something like $100.000. He added that his sales was not nearly so large as he bested they were. Where it had been said they were nearly 20.00 some days, he now says one tenth that amount was a big day.

The attorneys for the receiver asserted that the answer was indefinite, and that the answer should be given. Judge Gober held that the answer should be given. Judge Gober held that the facts a out his bank accounts, with the facts a out his bank accounts, with

UNPLEASANT BELATIONS.

When the prisoner was asked what were the relations between himself and Mr. McCarthy he replied they were unpleasant, and that there had been an unbarmonious feeling between the two all along.

When he was telegraphed to by Mr. S. S. Elam, who asked for a statement from him as to whether or not he signed this paper, Pattee said he wired back that he did not, but that he would come to Richmond on the next train. "After getting here," he said. "I found that I was already practically in the hands of the law, and made no further attempt to settle the matter."

In the course of the investigation Mr.
McCarthy referred to Mr. Pattee's connection with the Old Dominion Association as being very "rascally."
He was called back upon the stand and asked by Major Stringfellow it he knew what the word "rascally" implied.
The witness said that he did, and that it often was very applicable to the conduct of some lawyers.

TURALLY A GOOD THING.

What He Objects to in the Alliance Platform-He Condemns Secret Methods-Other Views.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.) WASHINGTON, July 10 .- Hon. William C. advertised to take place there were halted | night, denies the authorticity of a reported interview with him some weeks ago in existence. As an agricultural organization he thinks the Alliance a good thing. He favors all of the demands of the Alliance except the sub-Treasury and landloan bills and Government ownership of railroads; but condemns Alliance methods to control the Democratic party in the South and commit it to the support of these three objectionable measures.

He complaints of the farmers are just, but that some of the farmers are just, but that some of the remedies proposed by the Alliance are infinitely worse than the disease; that the Democratic party favors reduction of taxes, more extended markets for agricultural products, and a greater volume of sound money. He adds that if the Democrats gets control of the Government the farmers will find in these measures the relief they seek and are entitled to.

SECHETS METHODS CONDEMNED. SECRETS METHODS CONDEMNED.

He strongly condemns all secret methods in politics, and denounces the three measures named as the most radical, paternal, and centralizing of any ever advocated by any party in the United States. He calls on the Alliance leaders to turnish a bill of particulars as to their Democracy, and favors making a test of opinion in every convention by a resolution against these three measures. He thinks that with the Democracy united victory is sure in 1892.
